Color in the Mummy Mask of Kay-neferwy (1295-1186 BC), then visit the ancient Egyptian art gallery at the Saint Louis Art Museum to see real mummies up close!
Monarch butterflies lay their eggs on the underside of milkweed leaves, which provides protection and nourishment for the larvae (or caterpillars). Later, as the adult butterflies move from plant to plant, they pollinate the milkweed. So both the butterfly and milkweed benefit from their symbiotic relationship.

Can you help our Louisa and Archie find the path to the milkweed plant?
